Commonwealth's Attorney.
We are requested to announce O. D. McManama, Esq., of Grant county, a candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney in this (8th) Judicial District.
Feb. 25—10.

On Friday last a bill to amend the law in regard to absent and non-resident defendants—that in actions hereafter brought or now pending, in which the defendant is shown by affidavit to be voluntarily in the service of the so-called Confederate States, civil or military, or has voluntarily left the county of his residence, and for thirty days has remained within the military lines of the army of the Confederate States, or any military body of men in their service, such defendant may be proceeded against in all respects as absent or non-resident defendants—passed the House of Representatives. At the request of several members we append the yeas and nays upon the passage of the bill:

YEAS—Messrs. Speaker, (Buckner), J. W. Anderson, Andrews, Bacheller, Brinkley, Benjamin, Bell, J. W. Boone, Brann, Brinkley, R. J. Brown, T. S. Brown, Barnum, Calvert, C. Campbell, J. W. Campbell, Clay, Cleveland, J. B. Cochran, L. Cochran, Conklin, Cooper, Curtis, Downing, England, Finley, Finnell, Gilbert, Gibson, Griffith, Harney, Hasty, Huston, Ireland, Jacob, Kennedy, Lindsey, Maxey, Messrs. Thomas, Turner, Underwood, Van Winkle, Ward, White, Wolfe, Bryan, R. Young, and Milton Young, and V. B. Young—65.

NAYS—Messrs. Ash, Burns, Bish, Garrigut, Hampton, Johnson, and Murphy—7.

A GIANTIC SWINDLE.—A gigantic swindle has been perpetrated, in Iowa, upon the non-resident land owners. The plan of operations is said to be that companies of six to thirteen sharpers have, in many cases, gone out to the unsettled districts of Iowa, organized counties, elected themselves county officers, levied exorbitant county taxes on the lands, principally held by non-residents, collected and disbursed the money for their private advantage.

With a county judge and a county board, selected from among themselves, it is an easy matter to make appropriations for services never performed, work never done, material never needed. In a certain county north of Fort Dodge, in which heavy taxes have for several years been levied, collected, and expended, last year there were cast but nine votes, and those all by office holders, who, of course, voted for themselves.

MORE DEVELOPMENTS ABOUT BULL RUN.
In the House of Representatives a resolution to appoint a stenographer to serve in the Committee on the Conduct of the War, induced a sharp debate on this topic, in which Mr. Blair stated that Gen. Patterson informed President Lincoln, on the evening before the Bull Run battle, that Gen. Johnston had eluded him, and had succeeded in joining his forces with Beauregard, or would so join early the next day; furthermore, that on hearing of this, the President called on Gen. Scott, and insisted that the advance to Manassas should not be made. Gen. Scott, however, according to Mr. Blair, declared that the movement should go on in spite of the news communicated. Mr. Covode denied this statement, but Mr. Blair reiterated it, and desired to be called on to testify before the Committee.

We have received the January number of Godey's Lady's Book. Though late in coming, it is always acceptable. This number is embellished with fine engravings and fashion plates, and has the usual variety of good reading matter.

PRISONERS.—We learn by telegraph from Cairo that Phil, Lee, Alex. Casseday, Tom Clay, R. Graves, Dr. Redford, Charlie Kleisendorf, and Frank Tryon, whose names are well known in this city, were among the prisoners taken at Fort Donelson.

Secretary Stanton on Political Arrests.

The New York Tribune expresses in the strongest terms its approval of the late proclamation of Secretary Stanton, announcing that hereafter no more arrests for political offenses would be made in the loyal States by letters or by the military authorities. It says:

"To seize, on the one-sided testimony of eaves-droppers and secret informers—who may be impelled by private malice—citizens of thoroughly loyal States, and carry them to a military dungeon where no process can reach and no proof of innocence avail them, is an unwarranted impeachment of the loyalty of the community so subjected to Austrian rule, and an implication that their patriotism is no safeguard for their liberties. It is a gross mistake to subject citizens to this harsh discipline; but when the public burdens are increased to cover the impracticable and arbitrary warrants of railroad newsboys, strolling spouters of dubious character, or mere all and ordinary bar-room brawlers, the judgment of the community is affronted by the spectacle of machinery fitted only to crush a giant employed to ensnare a fly. The country will think the Secretary of War most heartily for his agency in demolishing this most needless, mischievous, and odious machinery of despotism, and in restoring the beneficent supremacy of law-guarded liberty. Such proof of the beneficent results of an infusion of new blood into the Cabinet will intensify the general desire that the experiment be speedily repeated."

This is all very well, but it is decidedly late in the day for such sheets as the Tribune to take this ground. And its conditions could have stopped the practice months ago by their influence with the government, if they had been so disposed.

Fluctuation in Prices.

The Boston Commercial Bulletin gives the following statistics of the fluctuations in the prices of some of the principal articles of consumption, between the years 1819 and 1862:

Prices generally were highest in 1819 and lowest in 1843. Beef was highest in 1855 and lowest in 1843. Its average price for 10 successive years was below $12 per barrel. Codfish was highest in 1859 and lowest in 1843. Flour, that most sensitive of articles, was highest in 1837; an importation of breadstuffs into the United States, to the amount of $5,000,000, having occurred in that year. It was lowest in 1821. Its average price for 44 years has been $6 46 per barrel. Rice, which is an article of food with two-thirds of the human race, was highest in 1819 and lowest in 1841. Coffee was highest in 1819 and lowest in 1819. In the latter year it was sold at about the same price as the duty levied upon it at the Custom House prior to 1823. Its average for the last 39 years has been about 90 cents per pound. The consumption of coffee in the United States has increased since 1834 from $11,000,000 to 251,000,000 of pounds. In 1834, the consumption was 3 pounds per head; in 1858 it was 8 pounds. Tea was highest in 1832 and lowest in 1856. The consumption of this article has increased from 15,000,000 of pounds, in 1831 to 36,000,000 in 1858. Its average price for the last 10 years has been below 25 cents per pound. The average duty levied upon it at the Custom House prior to 1833, was 32 cents. Muscovado sugar was highest in 1819 and lowest in 1842. The consumption of sugar in the United States has increased from 195,000,000 of pounds in 1832 to 1,000,000,000 of pounds in 1859. Hides were highest in 1857 and lowest in 1849. Cotton, owing to the blockade consequent upon the civil war existing in the United States, is higher at the present time than during any period since the peace of 1815. It was lowest in 1845. The difference in the extremes of price is greater than that of any other article, it being 50 per cent. The crop of this article has increased from 150,000,000 of pounds in 1821 to 2,200,000,000 in 1860. It furnished more than one-third of our exports to foreign countries. Wool, owing to the demand for the present war supplies, is higher than at any period during the last 44 years. It was lowest in 1820. The duty levied upon it, under the tariff of 1820, was 15 cents per pound, equal to 100 per cent. upon prime cotton.

The Opening of Parliament—The Queen's Speech—Relations with America Friendly—Nothing About the Blockade.

THE QUEEN'S SPEECH.
(By Royal Commission.)

My Lords and Gentlemen:

We are commanded by Her Majesty to assure you that Her Majesty is gratified that you will deeply participate in the affliction by which Her Majesty has been overwhelmed by the calamities, untimely, and irreparable loss of her beloved consort, who has been her comfort and support. It has been soothing to Her Majesty, while suffering most acutely under this affliction, to see that her subjects, in their most cordial assurances of their sympathy with her sorrow, as well as their appreciation of the noble character of him, the greatest of whose loss to Her Majesty, and to the nation, is justly so universally felt and lamented. We are commanded by Her Majesty to assure you that she looks with confidence to your assistance and advice. Her Majesty's relations with all the European Powers continue to be friendly and satisfactory, and Her Majesty trusts there is no reason to apprehend any disturbance of the peace of Europe.

A question of great importance, and which might have led to very serious consequences, arose between Her Majesty and the Government of the United States of North America, owing to the seizure and forcible removal of four passengers from on board a British mail packet by the commander of a ship-of-war of the United States. That question has been satisfactorily settled by the restoration of the passengers to British protection, and by the disavowal of the United States Government of the act of violence committed by their naval officer. The friendly relations between Her Majesty and the President of the United States are, therefore, unimpaired. Her Majesty will gladly appreciate the loyalty and patriotism which have been manifested on this occasion by Her Majesty's North American subjects.

The wrongs committed by various parties and by successive governments in Mexico, upon foreigners resident within the Mexican Territory, at 1 for which no satisfactory redress could be obtained, have led to the conclusion of a Convention between Her Majesty, the Emperor of the French, and the Queen of Spain, for the purpose of negotiating a Convention of arbitration on the coast of Mexico, with a view to obtain that redress which has hitherto been withheld. That Convention, and papers relating to that subject, will be laid before you.

The improvement which has taken place in the relations between Her Majesty's Government and that of the Empire of China, and the good faith with which the Chinese Government have continued to fulfill the arrangements of the treaty of Tien Tsin, have enabled Her Majesty to withdraw her troops from the port of Canton, and to reduce the amount of her forces on the coast and in the seas of China.

Her Majesty always anxious to exert her influence for the preservation of peace, has concluded a Convention with the Sultan of Morocco, by means of which the Sultan has been enabled to raise the amount necessary for the fulfillment of certain treaty arrangements which he had contracted toward Spain, and thus to avoid the result of a renewal of hostilities with that power; that Convention, and the papers connected with it, will be laid before you.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

Her Majesty commands us to inform you that she has directed the estimates for the ensuing year to be laid before you. They have been framed with a due regard to prudent economy and to the efficiency of the public service.

My Lords and Gentlemen:

Her Majesty commands us to inform you that measures for the improvement of the law will be laid before you, and among them will be a bill for rendering the title of lands more simple at 1's transfer more easy. Other measures of public usefulness, relating to Great Britain and Ireland, will be submitted for your consideration.

Her Majesty regrets that in some parts of the United Kingdom, and in certain branches of industry, temporary causes have produced considerable pressure and privation, but we have reason to believe the general condition of the country is sound and satisfactory. Her Majesty confidently commends the general interests of the nation to your wisdom and your care. She fervently prays that the blessing of Almighty God may attend your deliberations, and may guide them to the promotion of the welfare and happiness of her people.

The Ministerial Programme.

The London Times says the Ministerial programme is modest, but the Government will have no sincere during the present session. The channel of neutrality is narrow, and to steer clear through the quicksands of foreign politics will require pilots of no small skill and experience.

Sure and Doubtful.

We feel confident that few can read the following anecdote without profit. It contains the substance of a sermon, one hour and a half in length:

A celebrated Judge in Virginia was in his earlier years, steeped as to the truth of the Bible, and especially as to the reality of expiation by blood. He had a favorite slave who accompanied him in his travels round his circuit. As they passed from court-house to court-house, they frequently conversed on the subject of religion; the servant, Harry, venturing at times to remonstrate with his master against his idolatry. As the Judge had confidence in Harry's honesty and sincerity, he asked him a great many questions as to how he felt and what he thought on various points. Among other things, Harry told his master that he was often sorely tempted by the devil to go and sin with him, and he told him how he happened to the devil attacked him (Harry) who was so pious a man, so sorry, whilst he allowed himself, who was an infidel and a sinner, to pass unnoticed and untempted. Harry asked, "Are you right sure, master, that he does let you pass without troubling you?"

"Yes, quite sure,"

"Well," said Harry, "I know that there's a devil, and that he tries me sorely at times."

A day or two afterwards, the Judge concluded to go and sin with him, and he told him of the treachery which lay across his road homeward. Harry accompanied him.

As they approached the river, they espied a flock of ducks, quietly floating on its surface. The Judge stealthily crept up the bank and fired upon them, killing two or three, and wounding as many others. He then threw down his gun, and made strenuous efforts with the aid of clubs and stones, to secure the wounded ducks, while he permitted the lead ones to float on, for the time, unnoticed by him.

Harry sat on the seat of the carriage, watching his master's movements with deep interest, and when he returned, said to him: "Master, what has happened to the ducks in the water, after they were wounded, and let the lead ones float on, it just comes into my mind why it is that the devil troubles me so much whilst he lets you alone."

"You are like the dead ducks, he's sure he's got you safe. I'm like the wounded ones, trying to get away from him, and he's afraid I'll do it; so he makes all the fuss, and he's afraid to let you float on."

The School for Feeble-Minded Children.

As the standard of wages is the test of the material prosperity of a country, so its attention to those classes which benefit the help has and unfortunate constitutes. The very best of the school for the instruction of feeble-minded children established a few years since by the Legislature is one of the proudest monuments of the philanthropy of Kentucky, and we have therefore heard with surprise, mingled with indignation, that it has been proposed to repeal the law of its incorporation and convert the building into an Executive mansion for the Governor of the State. The Legislature that would take such a step backward, and the Governor who would consent to house taken from that which is devoted to society to which it was originally devoted, would deserve the execration of humanity.

The success which has attended the school under the supervision of Dr. James Bodham is most gratifying to those who have interested themselves in its progress and with the now nearly completed improved appliances its future usefulness must be still more satisfactory. The number of pupils is rapidly increasing since the occupancy of the new building, which we fear will soon be too small to accommodate all who apply for admission. The maintenance of the establishment is a necessity to the people of the State, and they will not consent to its destruction or any action tending to impair its efficiency. Some persons, whose fingers always weigh and balance a dollar for a long while before they bestow it in charity, and then want to do it unless the gift can be ostentatiously made, may object to the present expense of the institution. But in the inception of all similar charities, the expense of maintaining the inmates is always incurred in consequence of the purchase of all the necessaries of life, which, when the small number of inmates treated bears no proportion to the number of applications refused on account of limited accommodation, and the officers required for ten will manage twenty times that number. There is no economy in suspending the institution; all the money has been already expended that is necessary to secure its final success or demonstrate its failure. We want an Executive Mansion, and its necessity has been recently advocated in these columns; but God forbid that it should ever be obtained at the expense of these interesting inmates who are to be the objects of the charity contemplated by the establishment of the school for the feeble-minded. We would not be a Governor of Kentucky, with a salary of a million a year, to allow our head beneath a roof from under the shelter of which the feeble-minded inmates have been driven. Whenever we dreamed of such a thing as stopping this Institute may well shudder the idea. Kentucky gazethers in the way of the feeble-minded children this close winter, and in perpetuity, and to take it away would be a great wrong, that it would ever be the blood and stagnate the pulse of all Christendom.—Low Jour.

EX-GOVERNOR PENNINGTON POISONED—

EIGHT GRAMS OF MORPHINE TAKEN BY MISTAKE.—The Hon. Wm. Pennington, of Newark, late Speaker of the House of Representatives, died at his residence on Sunday morning at six o'clock, from the effects of morphine taken by mistake.

The Governor's last appearance in public was on Thursday evening last, when he attended a lecture at Liberty Hall, when he complained of being unwell and unfit to be present. The following day morning he appeared to be in failing health, and Dr. Parker, of New York, and Dr. Pennington, of Newark, N. J., were summoned, and remained in attendance upon him, employing every effort for his restoration. His complaint was typhoid fever, which at times affected him so severely as to cause temporary aberration of mind.

Yesterday morning he appeared to be no better, and a prescription was written for quinine and sent to the drug store of Dr. C. W. Bulger, on Broad street, Newark. The prescription, directing powders, was dispensed, and labeled "quinine." Shortly after the powder was administered to the Governor. In the course of a few minutes it was discovered that there was something wrong, and on examination the powders were discovered to be morphine, eight grains of which had been taken. The sad ailment will be fully investigated, when particulars will be made public.

John B. Weller and Uncle Aba.

While in Washington we heard a good story in regard to Uncle Aba and John B. Weller, the Mexican killer.

Weller was at Washington settling his accounts as Minister to Mexico. After their adjournment he concluded to pay his respects to Mr. Lincoln, with whom he had served in Congress. He called at the Presidential Mansion, and was courteously received.

"Mr. President, said Col. Weller, I have called on you to say that I most heartily endorse the conservative position you have assumed, and will stand by you so long as you prosecute the war for the preservation of the Union and the Constitution."

"Colonel Weller," said the President, "I am heartily glad to hear you say this."

"Yes, Mr. President," said Weller, "I desire an appointment to aid in this work."

"What do you want, Colonel?" asked Abraham.

"I desire to be appointed Commodore in the Navy," said Weller.

The President replied—"Colonel, I did not think you had any experience as a sailor."

"I never had, Mr. President," said Weller; "but, judging from the Brigadier Generals you have appointed in Ohio, the less experience a man has, the higher position he attains."

Lincoln turned off with a hearty laugh, and said—"I owe you one, Colonel."

REASONING OF A D.D.—Extraordinary as the following anecdote may appear to some persons, it is strictly true, and shows the sense, and I am strongly inclined to add, reason of the Newfoundland dog: A friend of mine, while shooting wild fowl, with his brother, was attended by a sagacious dog of this breed. In getting near some reeds by the side of a river, they threw down their hats, and crept to the edge of the water, where they fired at some birds.

After several attempts to bring them both together in his mouth, the dog at last placed the smaller hat in the larger one, pressed it down with his foot, and thus was able to bring them both at the same time.

New York, Feb. 22.

The steamer Atlantic, from Port Royal on the 19th inst., arrived here this morning. She brings two hundred bales of cotton. All was quiet at Port Royal. There was no further intelligence respecting the expedition against Savannah. The Atlantic reports passing the Harriet Lane at Hatteras, bound south. The Karak from Havana, the schooner Nassau on the 17th, from Charleston, had arrived at Nassau, and left for Havana. The steamer Kate had arrived in ballast at Nassau. She had her cargo of Fernandina. The schooner Courier, from Charleston, had also arrived at Nassau.

East India Coffee Transplanted to Australasia, and its Success to the Coffee Culture.

CALYF., Ill., February 3.
Mr. Editor: I do not know any better medium through which I can convey the information, imparted by the enclosed communication, than through the Republican—read, as it is, in every neighborhood of our State.

The writer, Mr. Cooper, is one of our most distinguished lawyers, and full credence may be given to all his statements.

I send you a few of the coffee berries, for the inspection of the curious. It may be, we have in this plant a good substitute for the imported coffee, and may become exporters. Who knows?

Yours, respectfully,
SIDNEY BREESE.

EFFINGHAM, Ill., Jan. 27, 1861.

Hon. SIDNEY BREESE—Dear Sir: Your letter of reminder was duly received. I should have sooner complied with my promise to give you a full account of the coffee raised in this county, and its mode of cultivation, had I not wished to inform myself fully upon the matter, and also, of its real value, before writing. Since I saw you at Springfield, I have made full inquiry of Mr. Hoffman, and of other parties, who have raised and tested the article, and I have also tested it partially, myself, and can now give you as full a statement of its origin, mode of cultivation, productiveness, and qualities, as can be given from the limited tests it has been in my power to give it. The information following has been obtained from Mr. Hoffman, except where otherwise stated:

Some three years since, Mr. G. R. Hoffman, of this county, received a letter from his son, who has been for some time a resident of Australia, inclosing thirty seeds of a plant known there as Elast India Coffee, together with directions for its cultivation; stating that it had been quite extensively and profitably cultivated there, and was fast superseding all other coffee.

On the 16th of May, D. 1859, Mr. Hoffman planted these seeds in ordinary soil, without manure, planting the same depth as corn, in hills, three feet apart, each way, one seed in a hill, and tilled it with a hoe, keeping the ground loose about the plants, and clear of weeds. This crop ripened in August, when he gathered over 2,000 seeds, as it produces more than two hundred to one. Of this product he used one third for the purpose of testing its usefulness and value, and becoming fully satisfied that it was equal, if not superior, to the ordinary Rio coffee, he planted the remaining seed next season, on the 16th of June, eighteen inches apart, in drills, three feet apart, and tilled it the same as corn, plowing it three times, using a common double shovel plow, and raised, as his second year's crop, over four bushels, the seed ripening in September. I inclose you a few specimens of the seed. You will perceive that, in appearance, it is much like a pea, except that it is enclosed in a kind of husk or skin. In preparing the seed for use, Mr. Hoffman pours boiling water over it, letting it remain until the skin or husk is loosened, and separates itself from the seed, which then, most generally, divides into two parts, then dries it perfectly, then roasts and grinds it as other coffee.

Mr. Samuel Moffitt, the Secretary of our Agricultural Society, (county) states to me that he has tested it in his family, and that he considers it fully equal, in flavor, &c., to the best of Rio coffee, and that some members of his family, who were absent from home when it was prepared, could perceive no difference between it and the ordinary coffee which they had been using daily. B. F. Keavy, Esq., an attorney of this place, has also tested it, and pronounced it equal in flavor, and superior in strength, to the Rio coffee.

I prepared some, furnished me by Mr. Hoffman, and used it in my own family for two days last week. At the first drawing, we used the same quantity which we ordinarily use of the Java coffee, and found it to be much too strong, of a pleasant, coffee-like flavor, between me and I thought that of the Java and Rio coffees, more aromatic than the Rio, but so strong as to make it rather unpleasant to drink. The next drawing we made much weaker, and found it to be, in our opinion, almost equal to the Java coffee. It has also, as far as I can tell from the short trial, all the other somewhat peculiar properties, that is, it does not become flat or insipid from re-brewing, but if any change, improves in flavor and quality. It is hard to give particular statements as to its flavor and quality, that being so much a matter of taste.

People, various parts of the country, have been for a long time, in the habit of using various substitutes for coffee, such as wheat, rye, corn, clover, &c., which some pronounce equal to Rio coffee. The distinction between these substitutes and the coffee in question, might, perhaps, be stated as follows: Leaving the flavor out of the question as a matter of taste, habit, or use, these former substitutes do not possess the essential, invigorating, stimulating, and nourishing properties of the genuine coffee; while this latter, so far as I or others, who have used it, can tell, passes off them in a superior degree, while the other although differing somewhat from that of other coffee, is still a coffee flavor, easily distinguished as such, and not easily distinguished from other coffees, unless by one who knows what it is, and is trying it for that purpose.

Another thing strikes me as being highly probable: this coffee which we have tested is prepared from the fully ripened seed; while, although I do not know, I apprehend that the other coffees are gathered and prepared for market in a much earlier state; this may have some effect on the article, should future and more extended experiments demonstrate its worthiness of general cultivation. I had almost forgotten to state anything about the plant on which this coffee grows. As near as I can gather from the descriptions given me, the plant grows to about twenty inches in height, with branches spreading in every direction from the ground up, filled with pods. In each of which pods grows one, and sometimes two seeds, never more than two. The leaf is described as resembling that of a honey locust, but much smaller.

I have now given, as fully as possible, from description, an account of this article. Of course it is yet in its infancy; it may prove valueless, comparatively speaking, but I cannot help but think that it is destined to prove of much greater advantage to the country than anything which has recently been introduced, not excepting the Sorghum and Imphee.

I am yours, truly,
WILLIAM B. COOPER

DISPATCH PATENT
The Invention's Claims as acknowledged and protected by the Governments of Canada, the United States, and Great Britain;
to all whom it may concern.

What I claim as my invention is the contrivance of keeping accounts, current, of whatever kind, a description, or variety, in printed form, by keeping the statements of the several accounts standing in printers' type, or their equivalents, the type being so arranged in form as to admit of being readily and speedily changed in any particular when required.

A Specific for Hooping-Cough

It is known by a few individuals in the counties of Jefferson, Shelby, and Olmstead that I have a remeody that effectually cures Whooping-Cough. If there are remedies in America or Europe that cures, it is not within my knowledge, (except the one I use.) Physicians tell the families they attend to, that they are cured. I have no doubt of the efficacy of the medicine in what I call a deep-rooted prejudice, the faculty are unwilling to get the medicine, and save the little innocent whom they attend, and tell them no more it cannot be cured. One dollar will pay for two bottles, which is a sufficiency for one child. This medicine can be conveyed to any part of the United States by express for a mere trifle.
